

13th February

Dear Parents/Carers,

Re: 'Break a uniform rule' charity day

After discussions with their classes, the school council and the PTA have chosen to hold a fundraising day for WWF UK as this charity is currently supporting Australia after the recent bush fires across the country. This is a cause that many of our children felt was worthwhile as the effect of these fires on the wildlife has been devastating and they were keen to help to support the relief effort.

On Friday 13th March, children will be allowed to take part in a 'break a uniform rule' day and the PTA will be holding a cake sale to raise money for the charity.

On this day, children will wear their normal school uniform to school but will be allowed to change/add/remove one item for the day.

We are asking you to donate £1 to break one uniform rule. Below is a list of 'rules' that could be broken on this day or you may have your own ideas:

- Hairstyle/colour/accessories
- Wear your own jumper/t-shirt/trousers/skirt
- Wear trainers

We are really looking forward to seeing the different combinations of children who are mostly-dressed in their school uniform, but with some very funny changes!

If you have any questions, please don't not hesitate to contact myself or your class rep.

Yours sincerely,

Miss Newman
